Barrington Street.

Woman awakes to find a man standing in her apartment bedroom

For Saint Mary's University student Nadia Becker, the news of a young woman waking up to find a stranger in her apartment Monday morning hit close to home.

The break-and-enter occurred around 5 a.m. at Peninsula Place on Barrington Street, when a 23-year-old awoke to find a man standing in her bedroom. Police say he entered through an unlocked door, but left when she told him to.

"I think more people should probably lock their doors. I never thought it would happen to me, but it did," said Becker, who lives in Saint Mary's Rice Residence. She was one of several students who had a man break into their units last month.

"I was a little creeped out because I was just asleep in my room and he was just in our kitchen," Becker said.

"We definitely started locking our doors all the time."

Halifax Regional Police Staff Sgt. Barb Saunders said Monday's incident is a reminder to be diligent, and keep doors and windows locked at all times.

Saunders said there is nothing to suggest the break-in was related to previous South End Halifax incidents involving the "Sleepwatcher," where dozens of women awoke to find a man in their bedroom.

Robert LeBlanc, 64, was shopping on Barrington Street Monday and said it's important to protect yourself if you live in a busy area.

"Most people are great, everybody will help you out, but there's a couple people ... I wouldn't trust," LeBlanc said.

Sources have told Metro the break-in is being looked into as a possible accident, and that the suspect is a fellow tenant at Peninsula Place who may have wandered into the wrong unit.

Saunders couldn't confirm the reports, only stating the investigation is ongoing.

The suspect is described as a tall, slender man with an Arabic accent who was wearing a jacket.

Nothing was stolen and the woman was not hurt.

Can Trudeau lead country? 'Of course he can': Savage

Support. Halifax mayor big fan of federal Liberal leadership candidate

haley.ryan@metronews.ca

When the battle for the federal Liberal leadership kicks off in two weeks, front-runner Justin Trudeau will have many people in his corner, including the mayor of the Halifax Regional Municipality.

While critics of Trudeau say his wavy hair and Hollywood good-looks have got him more support than his politics, Mayor Mike Savage said the Quebec MP has what it takes to lead the federal party and follow in the footsteps of his father, former prime minister Pierre Trudeau.

"Do I think he could be prime minister? Of course he can," Savage said.

"I think a lot of people sort of write him off and say, 'He looks good, but is he smart?' and I'll tell you, you don't have to be ugly to be smart."

Savage said he's known Trudeau since his days in Ottawa as a Liberal MP for Dartmouth-Cole Harbour, when they were co-critics on human resources together.

"He's got a quality that very few people have seen in a long time, and when that comes along it's special and it's going to be very exciting to watch him over the next couple years," Savage said.

The mayor said Trudeau's magnetism, empathy and ability to figure out difficult

Peter MacKay now a dad

Defence Minister Peter MacKay and his wife Nazanin Afshin-Jam's first son has arrived.

Kian Alexander MacKay was born at 5:52 a.m. Monday in Ottawa. He weighs eight pounds, two ounces.

MacKay and Afshin-Jam married on Jan. 4, 2012.

They announced in September that they were expecting and said in January that it was a boy.

MacKay made the announcement of Kian's arrival on Twitter on Monday morning.

"Welcome to the world Kian Alexander MacKay. Thanks to everyone for their thoughts, prayers and support. We are overjoyed with our baby boy," he wrote.

Since then, congratulatory messages have been popping up on the site, including one from Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

"Laureen and I are thrilled to hear the news of Kian Alexander MacKay's arrival. We send our best wishes to Peter and Nazanin," @PMHarper wrote.

N.S. boasts one of the highest minimum wages in the country

KAYLA WOODSIDE

The minimum wage in Nova Scotia has gone up again, and some workers in Halifax say they'll take the 15-cent raise.

Nova Scotia has one of the highest minimum wages in the country at $10.30 per hour, a new figure set on April 1.

"It's going to be better, honestly, with the way economy is going," said Matthew MacIsaac, an 18-year-old student at Auburn Drive High School, while at the Halifax Shopping Centre Monday.

with his parents but says the money he earns helps out and that the increase will only make life better.

This is the fourth increase for minimum wage in the province since 2010. The minimum wage will go up annually based on the previous year's national Consumer Price Index.

Kaylee Stevenson, a 16-year-old student at J.L. Ilesley High School, said that with prices increasing everywhere, the increase is a good thing.

"It'll be better in the long run," she said.

Englishtown Ferry

Daughter waits for answers on missing father

For days, Linda and her husband Bill Halliday of Pictou read about the search for a car that drove off the Englishtown Ferry in Cape Breton. They wondered why there had been no missing person reported.

It wasn't until Friday morning, when relatives called to ask if they'd seen Linda's father, Jerry Hengeveld, who was travelling around to different relatives, that they began to suspect something wasn't right.

On Friday night, the RCMP confirmed a picture of the 81-year-old's car was taken at a gas station in Baddeck the day of the ferry tragedy, and Linda began to piece it together.

"Are they going to find him in that car?" she asked. "That's what's really trying right now."

She said the worst part is not knowing for sure what happened to her father. NEW GLASGOW NEWS

India. Rapes and murders are scaring off foreign tourism: Study

Foreign tourists offer flowers in remembrance of an Indian woman murdered on a New Delhi bus. MANISH BHANDARI/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

The rape and murder of a woman in New Delhi in December followed by two attacks on foreign female travellers has altered how tourists view India and led to a sharp fall in the number of foreign tourists, a new study says.

In the three months since that attack, the number of foreign tourists has dropped by 25 per cent, according to the Associated Chambers of Commerce and Industry in New Delhi. The number of female tourists has dropped by 35 per cent.

Tourists beaten, one sexually assaulted aboard van in Rio

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Two arrests made after foreigners were held in public van for six hours

Two foreign tourists were held for hours, brutalized and one of them sexually assaulted aboard a public transport van in Rio de Janeiro's Copacabana beach neighbourhood, police said in a statement.

Two men aged 20 and 22 have been taken into custody and a third is being sought in connection with the incident, which saw the tourists held for around six hours starting shortly after midnight on Saturday,

According to the statement, the suspects forced other passengers to get out of the van and then sexually assaulted the female. During the alleged assault, the tourists were driven to the poor suburban neighbourhood of Sao Goncalo, where the two suspects were apprehended.

The victims' nationalities have not been released, but local media reports have said the woman is American. Reports said the two had been studying Portuguese in Rio for about a month and that both left the country following the incident.

The statement said one of the victims' cellphones was found in the suspects' possession. The suspects had

Commanding officer Alexandre Braga, who heads the Rio police unit specializing in crimes against tourists.

Travel destination?

The incident raises new questions about security in Rio, which has cracked down on once-endemic drug violence in preparation for hosting future events.

- Rio's schedule. The city will play host to World Youth Day, a Roman Catholic pilgrimage expected to draw some 2 million people in late July; next year's soccer World Cup; and the 2016 Summer Olympic Games.

also used a debit card belonging to one of the victims at two gas stations, the statement said.

The Globo television network broadcast surveillance camera images of two men filling up the van and showed police images of a metal bar the suspects are thought to have used to beat and intimidate the victims.

The victims identified the two suspects, and a Brazilian woman has said she'd also been assaulted by the pair on March 23, the statement said.

In a Globo interview, commanding officer Alexandre Braga, head of the Rio police unit specializing in crimes against tourists, said the suspects had gone on a sex crime spree.

"The principal motive appears to have been the satisfaction of their lust," Braga said, adding that the robbery and other crimes appear to have been "secondary."

France considers widening its ban on religious garb

A vendor sets up his stall on the first day of the 30th annual Meeting of Muslims in France, Europe's largest Muslim convention, on Friday in Le Bourget. REMY DE LA MAUVINIÈRE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

French President Francois Hollande wants a new law that could extend restrictions on the wearing of prominent religious symbols in state jobs into the private sector. His new tack comes after a top French court ruled in March that a day-care operator that gets some state funding unfairly fired a woman in a headscarf, sparking a political backlash.

Many Muslims and even some Roman Catholics and Jews fear France's insistence on secular values — first enshrined in the French Revolution more than two centuries ago — is unfairly crimping their ability to express their beliefs. They also worry that Hollande's government wants to score political points.

"Islam has become a political instrument," said Samia Kaddour, 26, a community activist. She has all but given up hope for a state job but is not yet discouraged enough to leave.

"I'm not a foreigner. I'm French," she said. "I love this country ... even if it has trouble liking us." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seeing the green.
Sales quadruple at hydroponics company after Washington and Colorado legalize weed

Business has been on fire at a Surrey, B.C., hydroponics shop since the decision was made by two U.S. states to legalize the possession of marijuana.

The ballot initiatives passed last November in Washington and Colorado allow adults over the age of 21 to possess up to 28 grams of marijuana.

Steven Betts, co-owner of Green Planet Wholesale Ltd., says sales have quadrupled in the last few weeks. Their multi-million-dollar businesses now employ about 60 people.

Betts says his company has plans to open a new distribution facility in Washington in the next few months.

Prof. Stephen Easton, who teaches economics at Simon Fraser University, says the company's success could draw the attention of competitors, such as big-box stores — especially if the owners are seeing large margins.

Green Planet's owners say it's not about doing anything illegally, and there's a sign near the store's checkout counter that warns customers that they'll be asked to leave if they mention any illegal substances.

"We've never been about doing things illegally," said Betts. "We're not martyrs. We don't try to be radicals or rebels. We're really about how to garden and how to garden efficiently."

What kind of tweets could get you fired?

Well, tweeting that you hate your job, hate your boss and want your co-workers killed could do the trick.

The website FireMe! (fireme.l3s.uni-hannover.de) has developed a detection system to measure the likeli-

People's tweets are tracked based on four categories: Haters, Horrible Bosses, Sexual Intercourse and Potential Killers.

The website includes a tool called The FireMeter!, which determines on a percentage basis how likely you are to get fired.

The FireMeter! also allows you to enter another person's Twitter username to see how exposed they are

The website shows a list of people tweeting about how they hate their jobs. They are grouped under the category "People who want to get fired."

In addition, FireMe! has compiled a leaderboard of people saying the most offensive things.

Boy Scouts. Application for troop sponsored by gay-rights group denied

The Boy Scouts of America has rejected an application for a scouting troop sponsored by a Utah gay-rights organization.

The Utah Pride Center asked permission to start a troop for 10 middle-school-aged children with straight troop leaders, said executive director Valerie Larabee. Many of the boys' parents had left Scouts or opted not to join because of their opposition to their long-standing policy excluding gay men and women.

After spending four months preparing a proposal to adhere to Scouts' standards, Utah Pride Center officials said their entire application was returned intact four days later — including the business cards they included.

They were told that the mission of their organization didn't properly align with the goals of Boy Scouts, said Utah Pride Center's director of community engagement.

Archbishop says Church should be more open to gays

The archbishop of New York says the Roman Catholic Church has to make sure that its defence of marriage is not reduced to an attack on gays.

Cardinal Timothy Dolan says the church could work on being more welcoming to gays and lesbians. He says the church tries its "darnedest to make sure we're not an anti-anybody."

Dolan made the remarks Sunday on the ABC News program This Week. Dolan says he would tell gay men and lesbians that God loves them and they're entitled to friendship. But he says marriage is a union between a man and a woman "where children can come about naturally."

Prosecutors want death penalty for Holmes

Colorado theatre shooting. The defence is expected to argue suspect is not guilty because he was legally insane at the time

Prosecutors on Monday said they will seek the death penalty against the man accused in last year's movie-theatre attack that killed 12, injured 70 and spurred new gun-control laws in Colorado.

The much-anticipated disclosure came in a court hearing held four days after prosecutors publicly rejected an offer by James Holmes' attorneys that the former neuroscience graduate student would plead guilty to avoid execution. Prosecutors had said the proposal wasn't a valid plea-bargain offer.

The decision to seek execution will delay the start of the trial until at least February, and the judge acknowledged even that might not be enough time for all sides to prepare. The trial had been planned to begin in August.

"It's my determination and my intention that in this case for James Eagan Holmes justice is death," Arapahoe County District Attorney George Brauchler said at the Monday hearing. He spoke quietly and deliberately without any hesitation.

There was no audible reaction from Holmes, whose parents sat side by side, clutching hands with fingers intertwined.

They were quiet, as were the victims in the courtroom when Brauchler disclosed his decision.

Bryan Beard, whose best friend was killed in the attack, sat in an overflow courtroom. "I had a huge adrenaline rush," he said. "I love the choice, I love it, I love it.... I hope I'm in the room when he dies."

U.S. soldier knifed by teen while playing with kids: Official Afghanistan.

American deaths spike dramatically following five-year low

An Afghan teenager fatally stabbed an American soldier in the neck as he played with children in eastern Afghanistan, officials said on Monday, as the U.S. death toll rose sharply last month with an uptick in fighting due to warmer weather.

Last week's calculated attack shows that international troops still face many dangers even though they are increasingly taking a back seat in operations with Afghan forces ahead of a full withdrawal by the end of 2014.

Just one U.S. service member was killed in February — a five-year monthly low — but the U.S. death toll climbed to at least 14 last month.

Overall, the number of Americans and other foreign forces killed in Afghanistan has fallen as their role shifts more toward training and advising government troops instead of fighting.

But a series of so-called insider attacks on foreign troops has threatened to undermine the trust needed to help President Hamid Karzai's government take the lead in securing the country after more than 11 years at war.

The attack that killed Sgt. Michael Cable, 26, of Philpot, Ky., last Wednesday occurred after the soldiers had secured an area for a meeting of U.S. and Afghan officials in a province near the volatile border with Pakistan.

But one of two senior U.S. officials who confirmed that Cable had been stabbed by a young man said the assailant was not believed to have been in uniform so it was not being classified as an insider attack.

The Netherlands. Four arrested on suspicion of burying deadly nerve gas Dutch police spent three days digging up a field after receiving a tip that sarin may have been buried there, but found no trace of the deadly nerve agent, a prosecutor's office spokeswoman said on Monday.

Two men and two women have been arrested in the case in the southern city of Maastricht on suspicion of owning and concealing a deadly gas, spokeswoman Cindy Reijnders said in a telephone interview.

She said police started monitoring a man's movements last week after a tip and arrested him on Friday as he was about to start digging in a field just outside Maastricht, a city close to the Dutch border with Belgium. She said police have no indication that sarin was about to be used in a terror attack.

"There are no legal activities you can use sarin for," she said. "But at this moment we have no information or clues that it was going to be used for terrorism."

Reijnders said police be-

About sarin

Sarin, first created by German scientists just before the Second World War, is a powerful nerve agent that was used in an attack by a Japanese doomsday cult on the Tokyo subway system in 1995 that killed 13 people and sickened some 6,000.

lieve the four suspects may have been trying to sell the nerve agent for their own financial gain, although it was unclear if they already had a buyer.

Police dug up 400 square metres to a depth of a metre near Maastricht without finding anything.

Exposure to a high dose of sarin can cause convulsions and loss of consciousness. Death can be caused by suffocation because of muscular paralysis and the effects the sarin has on the respiratory centre of the nervous system.

White slavery accuser found stoned to death

Happy Sindane, who made headlines around the world when he claimed he had been kidnapped and enslaved by blacks, has been found stoned to death, South African police say.

The motive for his killing was unknown. Police spokesman Capt. Leonard Hlathi said Monday that no arrests have been made.

A four-month inquiry in 2003 established that Sindane was the son of a black domestic worker and the white man for whom she worked.

Sindane had told reporters that he was a white slave, abused, threatened and forced to live outdoors tending animals.

His black family was insulted. They said they had taken in an unwanted child and treated him as one of their own.

IT'S OK TO LOSE THE BOOZE

"Whyyyyy aren't you drinking?" the birthday girl slurred as she glared at me from behind her heavy mascara-coated lashes. "I'm on antibiotics," I lied, because simply not being in the mood wasn't going to cut it as an excuse. For this birthday-girl booze-hound, it wasn't enough to show up to the party; I was expected to toast the occasion with a second, third and fourth drink to show my solidarity.

While peer-pressure-related alcohol consumption might seem like an issue relegated to the teenage house party and university campus, the social expectations surrounding drinking are still very much present in our post-collegiate years and beyond. There seems to be a slew of social events that require us to indulge in a few drinks in the name of friendship. From weddings and birthday parties to bachelorette weekends, it's difficult to avoid the social lubricant of choice without drawing attention to yourself.

But if you keep track of those casual drinks throughout the week — a glass of wine with dinner, cocktails with friends after work, a couple of mimosas with brunch — they start to add up. The recommendation for women is no more than seven alcoholic beverages a week — for guys it's double that — but how many of us are going over that, more often than not?

Any time I've tried to commit to a defined period of sobriety, I've failed. Not because I have a "problem," but because I tend to give in to friends who insist I join them in a glass of something or other to celebrate, commiserate or simply unwind after a long week. It's not that it's so hard to say no. It's just a lot easier to say yes. Drinking is such a ritualized part of social behaviour that abstaining usually results in being subjected to an inquisition.

But it's not just friends who lay on the pressure when it comes to alcohol. Joining your colleagues in knocking back a few drinks is a common expectation in many professional settings. In some instances, the choice to remain sober can leave you at a professional disadvantage. Mention that you'd

Motown piano signed, sealed, delivered

MAX ORTIZ/THE DETROIT NEWS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Welcome back to 'Hitsville, U.S.A.'

Piano technician Billy Brasile installs a keyboard cover on an 1877 Steinway grand piano used by Motown greats during the label's 1960s heyday. The prized Steinway, restored thanks to Paul McCartney, was moved back into Studio A on Monday at what is now the

Motown Historical Museum in Detroit, or "Hitsville, U.S.A."

McCartney, a longtime fan of the Motown sound who recorded several of the label's songs with the Beatles, told museum officials in 2011 that he wanted to help with the piano's refurbishment after learning the historic instrument — used by Stevie Wonder, Marvin Gaye and other

Motown legends — no longer could be played.

The piano was moved to New York for repairs, and the work was completed last August. In September, McCartney and Motown founder Berry Gordy, pictured right, played it together at a charitable event at Steinway Hall in New York City.

Bears on board! Leather yoga pants! Firms yuk it up for April Fool's Day

Gotcha. Brands try to flex their funny bones with goofy mock ads

Canadian companies sought to generate some good-natured brand buzz on Monday by releasing their 2013 April Fool's Day ads.

This year's participants included WestJet, the Toronto Transit Commission, Lululemon and Boston Pizza.

York University professor Russell Belk says well-executed humour can go viral and attract lots of mainstream media attention, but warns those that miss the mark risk offending.

He says newspapers have run April Fool's stories for decades, but social media can accelerate how widespread the best ads are seen.

Belk points to Calgary-based WestJet, whose tongue-in-cheek ads last year promoted kid-free planes. This year the airline says it's allowing

Meanwhile, the TTC released a video spoofing annoying things passengers do on the subway. It promoted a personal subway car that allows riders to apply makeup, do personal grooming and use

Lululemon said it was introducing lululeather after partnering with local cow farmers who feed their animals organic grass and chia seeds. In addition to Cowabunga yoga pants, it would also offer Moomats

Boston Pizza said it was banning all buns and replacing them with new uses for pizza dough. Several ads on YouTube said it was adding to its menu pizza salad, pizza beer and pizza cake.

Smokers can use nicotine replacement longer: FDA

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration says smokers who are trying to quit can safely use over-the-counter nicotine gum, patches and lozenges for longer than previously recommended in a move to help millions of Americans kick the habit.

Current labels suggest consumers stop smoking or using other products containing nicotine when they begin using the products to help them quit and that they should stop using nicotine-replacement products after 12 weeks at most.

The federal agency said Monday that the makers of gum and other nicotine replacement products can change the labels that say not to smoke when using the products. The FDA also said the companies can let consumers know that they can use the products for longer periods as part of a plan to quit smoking, as long as they are talking to their doctor.

Nicotine-replacement products, designed to help people stop smoking by supplying controlled amounts of nicotine to ease the withdrawal symptoms, were first approved about 30 years ago and have gone from prescription to over-the-counter within the past 17 years. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TAKE CARE OF THAT SMILE FOR OVER

From feeling unconfident to wanting to look our best on your wedding day, first date or class reunion, many of us have experienced those moments when we're just not pleased with our teeth. But thanks to an ever-growing choice of teeth whitening products, you can be prouder of your smile and more confident about your appearance.

Over time, our teeth can become discoloured due to the natural aging process and the things we consume, including coffee, tea, red wine, blueberries, etc. Medications can also be to blame, for example, people who took tetracycline as part of their acne treatment. Whatever the cause, it's time to banish the less-than-white smile.

Your smile is usually the first thing people notice about you. Shiny, white teeth are indicative of someone who takes pride in his or her appearance. Not surprisingly, a white smile can speak volumes at a job interview, where interviewers can be wowed by a lot more than a great resume.

Did you know that a whiter smile can make you feel and look more attractive to the opposite sex? According to a study by the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry, 96 per cent of respondents feel that having bright white teeth makes you more attractive to the opposite sex.

Even though you might not be destined

THE BENEFITS OF POWER VS. MANUAL BRUSHING

Although manual toothbrushes have become significantly more advanced over the years, many people have opted to trade in their classic brushes for powered ones. Why go for the power? In addition to the obvious answer that the brush does most of the work for you, here are a few other advantages:

- Gives you a better overall cleaning – The heads of electric toothbrushes are designed to rotate and whirl in ways that remove plaque from your teeth better and more quickly than manual ones. Power brushes also penetrate under the gum line which is helpful in reducing gingivitis.
- Is easier to handle and to hold – Larger, ergonomically designed handles make brushes easier to grip — a valuable feature for people who have arthritis, dexterity issues or carpal tunnel syndrome.

- Makes you brush for the right amount of time – Built-in timers let you know when you've brushed for two minutes (the time recommended by the Canadian Dental Association).
- Prevents over-brushing – Pressure sensors indicate if you're brushing too hard. Over-brushing can lead to tooth sensitivity and receding gums.
- Provides a greener alternative – With electric brushes, you only need to replace the head once every three months instead of the entire brush.

- Offers other convenient features: Some electric brushes make the tooth brushing time even easier for you by automatically dispensing toothpaste for you. The one complaint you might hear about the power toothbrush is that it's more expensive than a manual toothbrush.

True, but isn't your long term oral health and well-being worth it?

A WHITER SMILE FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS

“DID YOU KNOW THAT A WHITER SMILE CAN MAKE YOU FEEL AND LOOK MORE ATTRACTIVE?”

Whether you're about to walk down the aisle, getting ready for your high school prom, preparing for your first real job interview, or some other major event, there's one look that suits every occasion — whiter smile.

OVERALL HEALTH

for Hollywood, a set of whiter teeth can make you feel like a star. True, your next starring role might be in a graduation picture or next your holiday party, but even so, a brighter smile can make all the difference in the world.

If you are thinking about whiter shade of white, there are a few options available, ranging in price from less than $20 up to about $2,000.

Going to a professional

A dental professional cleans and removes any plaque along your gum line. Once this is done, a peroxide-based gel is applied to your teeth followed by a special light that activates the gel. The process usually takes about an hour, and can whiten teeth several shades. The cost can range from $300 to $2,000 depending on the system, the technology, and the effort required to achieve desired results.

Tailored whitening kits

Using impressions of your teeth the dental professional creates a tailored whitening tray and provides a peroxide-based teeth whitening gel to be used with the tray.

Some can be worn at night, others during the day. Trays should be worn daily for optimal results. Customized trays can cost anywhere from $100 to $800.

Over-the-counter options

If you're watching your budget or don't have the time to visit your dentist you might want to try over-the-counter products like strips for whitening. You'll find these products at pharmacies, and drug and grocery stores where they range in price from $15 to $60. Although they do not offer the same whitening power as professional at-home bleaching kits, these products do produce noticeable results.

An important thing to remember is that the level of whiteness will vary among individuals. What works for a friend might not work for you. Talk to your dental professional to see if you're a good candidate for teeth whitening.

REASONS WHY IT'S IMPORTANT TO FLOSS

Consider dental floss one half of a powerful plaque-fighting duo that also includes the trusted toothbrush. If you think flossing doesn't need to be part of your daily oral health routine, here are six reasons to help change your mind.

Thwart tooth decay: Only dental floss can remove plaque from between your teeth where cavities can easily form.

Avoid gum disease: Flossing helps to prevent periodontal disease, which is one of the main causes of tooth loss.

Prevent tartar build-up: Flossing can slow down the accumulation of tartar.

Defend against bad breath: If plaque is left between your teeth, it will produce a bad smell in your mouth.

Reduce heart attack risk: Dangerous bacteria contained in plaque can enter the blood stream and cause heart disease.

Ready to get flossing? Talk to your dentist about what types of products will be most effective for you.

Dwayne Johnson, at your beloved franchise's service

Role play. The man formerly known as The Rock talks about being Franchise Viagra and where he'd fit in some of Hollywood's most epic series

Metro World News in Hollywood

The last time we spoke to Dwayne Johnson, he said he'd earned the nickname "Franchise Viagra" because of his knack for injecting energy into lagging movie properties like the Fast and Furious and Journey to the Center of the Earth series.

He's at it again with G.I. Joe: Retaliation, grabbing the alpha position from Channing Tatum to lead America's coolest covert military force. So we thought we'd see how Johnson could be deployed for other famous franchises — some struggling, some not. To our delight, he gave the assignment a lot of thought.

"You've got to give it thought because all these franchises are so beloved, and all of them have their own built-in mythology and affinity that's global, which makes it very special," Johnson says.

"And it reminds me of when we were kids, how cool and fun big Hollywood movies can be."

With that in mind, here

Dwayne Johnson, left, is busy kicking ass in G.I. Joe Retaliation, which opened last Friday. HANDOUT are his ideas:

Star Wars

"What is the cross between a Sith and a Jedi? I don't know. Is there something in between that has a bit more neutrality, who vacillates between both sides? Kind of like a grey area, possibly. Being such a big fan of Star Wars and the mythology of Star Wars, my inner boy, my inner geek — which is a big geek, by the way — embodies both sides. So back when I was eight years old I was both. And I don't know what that's called. What would that be?"

Star Trek

"My gut tells me we would have to create a character

Forget CGI, all Dwayne Johnson needs is some green paint to become The Hulk. NED EHRBAR/MWN that puts not only the Enterprise but the entire (Federation) at risk in terms of destruction by one man. That's where I feel like we should go with that. And I love Star Trek, by the way, but it feels like that. That's heavy, right?"

Indiana Jones

"That's tough. I love George

Lucas, obviously. I love Harrison (Ford). OK, I hunt him down. I hunt Indiana Jones down. When I hunt him down, there's a plot twist in there somehow where I then become the hero (laughs). And I share the hero mantle of Indiana Jones with Harrison Ford. Yes. Because of my eight-year-old inner-geek."

Twilight

"All hypothetical, right? All hypothetical. Because this is not now saying that The Rock wants to be in Twilight (laughs). In steps the most manliest, toughest son-of-a-bitch of a vampire the world has ever seen. He grabs Kristen Stewart, pushes aside Pattinson and quietly yet firmly says, 'We are now doing away with our boyhood ways.' Hypothetically."

American Pie

"Wow. Wow, I would say... I have no idea where I would fit in that. No clue, no clue."

Avengers

"I got it. I think I got it. I'm going to show you something right now (pulls out his phone). It is a great question to end on, because I have been thinking about this for some time. Sometimes there are moments in life where there are no words. This is one of those moments. And this is who I should be in the next Avengers (shows photo of himself dressed up as the Hulk for Halloween) No more CGI, just me."

Mary Roach built her career on exploring aspects of the human body that go overlooked by most writers.

In most cases, an interview subject suffering from a bad cough wouldn't be an ideal situation.

But it's oddly appropriate when the subject is Mary Roach, who can excuse herself with, "Speaking of mucoid substances, I'm launching some of them into your ear right now."

Roach has built her career on her delight in probing aspects of the science of the human body that most people would rather just ignore. In Stiff: The Curious Lives of Human Cadavers, she followed the body through its many strange post-mortem pathways; in Packing For Mars, she uncovered the less glorified side of the space program through zero-gravity toilets and long-term bed rest.

In her latest, Gulp: Adven-

I haven't covered," Roach says of her latest endeavor.

"Once you take food off the table and put it into your body, it becomes an object of revulsion. People get very flipped-out and disgusted, so it's yet another topic that I thought it would be fun to pull apart and explore."

As with Bonk, her book about the science of sex,

Roach is particularly fascinated by the way in which subjects that give us such pleasure have so many aspects we find utterly repulsive.

"We have a little bit of disgust for all of our biological processes," she says. "I don't think that eating is unique in that way — if you strip away love and lust and all the higher trappings of sex and you

The pressure is on to make tasty spring-friendly risotto

Pressure cookers can be intimidating. They seem fussy — and scary! But you may be sold after you make risotto, a dish that by definition is tedious to make.

It simplifies the process and — most impressively — speeds it up. What normally takes 45 minutes in a traditional sauté pan is done and ready to serve in about 20.

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 large shallot, chopped
- 1 cup Arborio rice
- 1/2 cup white wine
- 2 cups no-salt chicken broth
- Pinch of salt, plus more to taste
- Pinch of red pepper flakes
- 1 tbsp butter
- 1 cup small asparagus tips and tops, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- 1/8 cup chopped fresh chives

1. In pressure cooker over medium, heat oil until shimmering. Add shallot and sauté for 3 minutes, or until translucent. Increase heat to high and add rice, stirring to coat. Toast the rice, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes. Add wine and cook until evaporated.

2. Add broth and pinch each of salt and red pepper flakes. Stir until mix comes to a simmer, then lock on pressure cooker's lid. Set timer, 9 minutes. Bring cooker up to full pressure, then reduce heat to maintain that level. Cook until timer goes off.

3. Take cooker off heat and wait 3 minutes, then put pot in sink and run cold water over it to release pressure. Open cooker; the rice should be creamy. Return pot to stovetop over medium heat. Add butter, asparagus, cheese and chives. Stir until heated through and butter and cheese have melted. Season with salt and pepper.

Peas save Easter leftovers

NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert

Easter is over and you are left with a few scraps of ham and a ham bone. Well, now, that sounds like pea soup.

Dried peas or legumes are delicious, nutritional powerhouses containing high amounts of fibre, protein and minerals including the liver cleansing one, molybdenum.

Given that you probably cleaned your house with (liver damaging) smelly chemicals for the holidays and then indulged in a whack of sugar (also liver damaging), a little molybdenum can go a long way. #StuffNutri-

Dried split yellow peas have been consumed for millennia and they are the traditional variety chosen for French Canadian Pea Soup.

The process couldn't be simpler. Place ham bone and scraps into a slow cooker with 2 cups of dried yellow split peas and 10 cups of water or broth. Add one chopped onion, one chopped carrot, 2 bay leaves and a teaspoon of thyme. Go to work. In 8 hours or so you will have a thick, healthy, delicious soup. Freeze leftovers in single serving sizes and enjoy on each and every rainy day yet to come.

Snack. Almond-Crusted Bake-Fried Asparagus

1. Heat the oven to 450 F. Set a wire rack over a rimmed baking sheet. Coat the rack with cooking spray.

2. In a very large bowl, whisk the egg whites until frothy. Set aside. In a medium bowl, mix together the almond flour, garlic powder, paprika, cumin, salt and pepper.

3. Place asparagus in the egg whites and gently roll or toss until all of the spears are coated and moistened. A few spears at a time, transfer the asparagus to the almond flour mixture. Roll the spears in the mixture until evenly and well coated. If needed, pat the coating on with your hands. Arrange the coated spears on the prepared rack. When all of the spears are on the rack, spritz them lightly with cooking spray.

4. Roast for 20 minutes, or until crispy and lightly browned. Serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BE PROACTIVE TO LIMIT PESTS

Whether packing up the bags for a family vacation or loading up the cooler for a backyard barbecue, summer is the season to experience all that the great outdoors has to offer, which includes summertime pests. Fleas, ticks and mosquitoes thrive during the dog days of summer, and can pose threats to humans as well as our four-legged family members.

For pets, fleas cause more than just constant scratching; they can transfer tapeworms and cause serious skin conditions. Ticks are vectors of Lyme disease and Rocky Mountain spotted fever, which can cause serious illness for dogs, including respiratory failure. Mosquitoes can spread life-threatening heartworms to both dogs and cats.

"Not only can these pests cause serious illnesses to dogs and cats, but fleas and ticks can hitchhike on pets into the home, causing a larger infestation and increased risk for humans," says pest control expert Alice Sinia, the quality assurance manager for Orkin Canada. "Managing pests is all about taking proactive steps to limit their risks and presence."

To reduce the risks from these pests, Orkin Canada experts offer the following tips:

JUPITERIMAGES/BRAND X PICTURES/THINKSTOCK

- Check your pets frequently for signs of pests and keep an eye out for excessive scratching, licking and grooming behaviours.
- Regularly bathe pets during the summer, especially following extended periods outdoors or following playtime with other animals.
- Never let your pet sleep in your bed, and regularly wash your pet's bed and toys.
- To help control tick populations, keep vegetation in the yard trimmed, especially along the edges of your property.
- Work with your pest management professional to treat your yard for ticks, fleas and mosquitoes.

Consult your veterinarian and pest management professional for additional advice on how to identify, prevent and treat these summertime pests. Taking preventative steps can help make sure pests don't get the best of your pests.

One small business, and one giant step for youth employment

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

Take an innovative restaurant in Toronto called The Depanneur, add in a guest program for young chefs-in-the-making, stir, season and serve up a dish that helps solve youth unemployment.

OK, maybe I'm stretching it a bit, but owner Len Senater is using his business to help young chefs, such as my daughter and recent graduate, Quinn Cruise, get started.

Recently, she created Japanese Hambaagu, a sushi rice bowl topped with slider-like Asian meatballs, creamy mushrooms, a fried egg, edamame and a side of Japanese pickle. Drooling yet?

The guest chef develops a dish, pays for the ingredients and keeps a portion of the take.

Supported by a volunteer sous-chef, well-known vegan and raw chef, Mary Hulbert, Quinn cooked up a storm and pocketed $175 before expenses.

This isn't just a make-work program. If every business were as creative as Senater's, unemployed or underemployed youth would have the opportunity to demonstrate their skills in the marketplace.

This very small business (affectionately called The Dep) offers up to 150 young chefs a shot annually. Multiply this by giant, mid-size and small enterprises across the country and Canada could develop a concerted effort to provide work experience for the young.

And benefits accrue to the host. "It's also inherently viral," Senater points out. "Each new chef brings friends and family to their events, introducing the Dep to way more people than I could on my own."

Many businesses have internships, but it's so random that finding them can be difficult. In contrast, a nation-wide program, including a central database, to help youth find job experience would not only be a productivity boost, but would pay forward into the impending employee shortage when the baby boomers finally retire.

Even better, a percentage of these positions should be earmarked for those with disabilities. Among this group the unemployment rate hovers in the 60 per cent or greater range. My job-seeking daughter is deaf and part of that statistic.

"This experience really showed that I don't need hearing to be a good chef," Quinn says. "It also gave me a good idea about what to expect when I might head a restaurant one day."

It all adds up to a win-win in my books.

15 minutes of fame. Dead or alive, for some celebs fame just sticks

Stuck in my head

"We're basically coming out and saying not only is fame not (fleeting), it's extremely sticky."

Eran Shor, assistant professor of sociology at McGill University

Reality TV stars may come and go, but a new study suggests true fame is enduring.

The research finds that people who achieve real celebrity remain famous for years, making frequent appearances in newspapers over periods of decades. The work bucks the widely held notion that fame is ephemeral, a belief held both by average individuals and by those who study the sociology of fame.

Eran Shor is an assistant professor of sociology at McGill University and is one of the authors of the study, which is published in the American Sociological Review.

He and his co-authors used large collections of newspaper archives that spanned decades to study the issue, looking at people in sports and politics and the field where fame is thought to be most fleeting — entertainment.

They found that even a dead celebrity like the eccentric billionaire Howard Hughes continues to feature in news articles long after his death.

"The large, large, large majority of people who get famous stay famous. For a long time. How long, it depends on how famous they got," Shor says.

Shor undertook the work with two colleagues from Stony Brook University, along with a software engineer from Google.

This portion of their ongoing work looks at figures in entertainment.

From a list of tens of millions of names that appeared in the entertainment sections of more than 2,000 newspapers between 2004 and 2009, a random sample of 100,000 names was drawn.

The names were then analyzed to see which appeared most often, with the top 10 from the sample selected for study. And then those names were tracked to see if people who were frequently written about for one year had sustained fame.

The top 10 were actors Jamie Foxx, Bill Murray, Natalie Portman, Tommy Lee Jones, Naomi Watts, John Malkovich, Adrien Brody and Steve Buscemi. Rounding out the group were music producer (and convicted murderer) Phil Spector and the late inventor and billionaire Howard Hughes.

"Here's a group of people that are fairly famous, but perhaps not the most famous of them all — and all of them stick. All of them stay around from year to year. We know who they are, the papers keep writing about them, they stay in some kind of a celebrity (mode). They didn't go away."

Mooseheads wary of rampaging Olympiques

QMJHL playoffs.

After upset win over Rimouski, Gatineau sets sights on taking down Halifax

andrew.rankin@metronews.ca

A few months ago, Dominique Ducharme figured the Gatineau Olympiques had a shot at playoff success.

It was around that time Gatineau was finally playing with close to a full roster and in the midst of an impressive run.

So fast-forward to Sunday evening and the head coach of the Halifax Mooseheads wasn't shocked about 13th-seeded Gatineau's first-round series upset over the No. 4. Rimouski Oceanic.

"They're a hard-working team, they play hard on both sides of the ice," Ducharme said. "They played with commitment that first round. They deserved to win."

Now Halifax and Gatineau will clash in their second-round best-of-seven series, which kicks off Friday and Saturday at the Metro Centre.

Led by Martin Reway, tied for fourth in playoff scoring

Halifax Mooseheads head coach Dominique Ducharme knows his team will have their hands full when they face the Gatineau Olympiques in their second-round QMJHL best-of-seven playoff series, which starts Friday at the Metro Centre. JEFF HARPER/METRO with 10 points, as well as their captain, Taylor Burke, of Cole Harbour, Ducharme knows he'll be facing a confident bunch.

"They certainly feel more confident than two weeks ago when they started the playoffs."

A total of 57 points separated the two teams in the regular season, where they split their matchups.

Gatineau won 6-1 in September at the Metro Centre while the Mooseheads returned the favour with a 5-1 victory in Gatineau two months later.

Ducharme isn't about to make any predictions. But after the Mooseheads swept the Saint John Sea Dogs in the first round, he's expecting his players to raise their game even higher.

"From now on the intensity will pick up," Ducharme said. "We are happy with the first round. We want to take that and bring it to another level starting Friday."

Call of the Moose

Falkenham nears return

After missing 25 games with a concussion, Halifax Mooseheads right-winger Ryan Falkenham appears ready to make his return to the lineup on Friday.

The 17-year-old forward is back participating in contact practices. Because he has been out of the lineup for so long, coach Dominique Ducharme said he's unsure when and in what capacity he'll use Falkenham. "It all depends on how he feels and how he's doing," he said.

Ducharme said he's been impressed by the way Falkenham has handled his recovery and said he remains an important member of the team.

"He plays with energy, he's really smart on the ice, he's got good speed, he's really good on the PK. He plays a simple game but very efficient." ANDREW RANKIN/METRO

Battle-ready in Halifax

"I know what our team is capable of and they know what kind of mindset we need to be successful."

Halifax Mooseheads head coach Dominique Ducharme talks about the team's upcoming best-of-seven playoff series against the Gatineau Olympiques

Jacked-up Blue Jays ready for game day

MLB. Toronto manager says Canada's new and improved squad is 'excited to get this going'

Colby Rasmus' T-shirt showed a Blue Jay between a set of weights, with the words "Nothing is given, everything is earned" on the back.

It's a motto worth remembering this season, even in the luxurious man cave that serves as the Jays' clubhouse in the bowels of Rogers Centre.

Stocked with talent from Alabama to British Columbia and the Dominican Republic to Venezuela, this Toronto team is already seen as one of the best that money can buy.

The first question manager John Gibbons got Monday was a somewhat glib query from a local TV anchor asking if the news-conference format would be the same in the post-season.

Gibbons laughed, a little awkwardly, before answering, "Let's hope so."

Expectations are sky-high ahead of Tuesday's sold-out opener against the visiting Cleveland Indians.

"Really, you can't go anywhere without hearing something about the Blue Jays," acknowledged Gibbons, who starts his second stint at the club's helm. "That's why we're excited to get this going. Opening days are always exciting, but it can be a hassle, too, because you're drawn every which way.

"So we'd like to get that behind us, hopefully get a win out of the way and then move on from there and then play some regular baseball. But we're excited. We're ready, we've got a good team, we'll see what happens."

The high hopes come with a high cost.

Toronto's payroll is north of $125 million US, which ranks eighth in the crazy-money world of major-league baseball. The Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees are both over $220 million.

The injury-plagued club that went 73-89 to finish fourth last season in the AL East has been bolstered by the additions of pitchers R.A. Dickey, Josh Johnson and Mark Buehrle.

The infield has been reinforced by all-star shortstop Jose Reyes, Emilio Bonifacio and Maicer Izturis, while Melky Cabrera takes over left field.

Like a Formula One race car in the starting grid, the Jays are polished and purring, waiting for the green light.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Good to go

- Slugger and team leader Jose Bautista has recovered from the wrist surgery that cut his 2012 season short.
- GM Alex Anthopoulos has brought in veterans Mark DeRosa and Henry Blanco to mentor the likes of Brett Lawrie (who starts the season on the DL) and catcher J.P. Arencibia.

Done deal. Flames send Bouwmeester to Blues ahead of trade deadline

The Calgary Flames dealt defenceman Jay Bouwmeester to the St. Louis Blues on Monday night ahead of the upcoming trade deadline.

In return, the Flames acquired a first-round pick and two prospects: Defenceman Mark Cundari and goaltender Reto Berra.

In the event St. Louis does not qualify for this year's playoffs, the Flames will receive St. Louis' fourth-round selection in this summer's draft, with the first-round pick being deferred to 2014.

The move comes after Calgary started a rebuild by trading captain Jarome Iginla to Pittsburgh last week. The NHL trade deadline is 3 p.m. (Eastern) on Wednesday.

Bouwmeester, who has an annual cap hit of $6.68 million US through the end of next season, has six goals and nine assists in 33 games in 2013.

A look around the AL East

New York Yankees

Injuries and austerity leave the Yankees heading into the season in a more precarious position than they've had in years. Budget-conscious with the $189-million luxury-tax threshold for 2014 in mind, their biggest moves in the off-season were to sign Kevin Youkilis to take over at third for A-Rod until he's ready — if at all.

Baltimore Orioles

The Orioles hope to duplicate the success of their 2012 season with a roster that is quite similar to the one that produced a turnaround from 93 losses to 93 wins and a berth in the playoffs as a wild-card team. The club did a marvellous job of juggling the roster last season, and they'll need similar success this year to survive.

Tampa Bay Rays

The budget-conscious Rays made a huge commitment by signing Evan Longoria to a $136.6-million 10-year deal that added six seasons and $100 million to his contract this winter. However, one of the best pitching staffs in baseball is what gives Tampa Bay a chance, even when the offence is sputtering.

Boston Red Sox

Expectations have been dampened after last season's 69-93 record and last-place finish in the AL East. The Red Sox concentrated on signing short-term contracts with mid-level players after trading pitcher Josh Beckett, first baseman Adrian Gonzalez and left-fielder Carl Crawford to the Los Angeles Dodgers last August. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MLB

Farrell gets win No. 1 vs. Yankees

Jackie Bradley Jr. and the Red Sox were daring on the base-paths. Jon Lester and the Boston bullpen were aggressive against a barely recognizable New York Yankees lineup.

The Red Sox looked as if they were in a hurry to put a dreadful 2012 season behind them. They're off to an impressive start, giving new manager John Farrell an 8-2 win on opening-day Monday.

"I think how you saw it (Monday) is how we can win a lot of ball games," new designated hitter Jonny Gomes said. "It was kind of all there early."

Shane Victorino led a revamped Red Sox lineup with three RBIs and Bradley walked three times and scored twice in his big-league debut. Boston's big day against CC Sabathia (0-1) came a year after it lost its first three games under Bobby Valentine and went on to a 69-93 finish.

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

What would you do if you knew all things were possible? So do it. Cosmic activity is so much in your favour at the moment that anything you try this week will work out well, maybe even spectacularly.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

The more you push, the more others will resist you and the more frustrated you will get. Maybe you should take the hint and stop trying so hard. Everything will work out for the best.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

The thing you most need to remember today is that other people need you more than you need them. Maybe you should find a way to remind them how much they struggle when you're not around.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

So you crave fame and fortune? There's a downside: loss of privacy and everything that goes with it. You don't care and you still want it? OK, now's the time to make your move.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Is there a belief or code of conduct that guides your actions? Is it living up to what you expected of it? If not, now is a good time to think in different directions. There are many paths to the ultimate goal.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

This may be a serious time for you but it's by no means unfavourable. In fact, you will find over the next 24 hours that business and financial matters go exceedingly well. No, really, there's no catch.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Go your own way, do your own thing today and don't worry what others think of it. Every now and again you need to get away from the crowd, and this is one of those times.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may not be looking forward to a new responsibility but neither should you be facing it with so much anxiety. The worst rarely happens and once you get in the swing of things, you'll sail through.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

Aim to be the best at what you do, today and every day. You've had your five per cent inspiration, now you need to start building up perspiration — that's the other 95 per cent.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

This may be one of those days when everything you say is taken the wrong way. Be that as it may, you must not stop talking. You have a message to get across and the world needs to hear it.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be dealing with a number of serious things but you are still allowed to have fun. Make time in your busy schedule to visit a friend who needs cheering up. It will cheer you up too.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may not be the most practical member of the zodiac but you know what you like and you know how to get it. You also know that you should never let a good opportunity slip away, so get busy. SALLY BROMPTON
